

Wigan North Western Mural Project

The Brief

Background

Avanti West Coast working with South East Lancashire Community Rail Partnership (SELCRP) are commissioning a new large-scale mural for the underpass beneath the platforms at Wigan North Western Station. This is a busy thoroughfare with a high daily footfall.

Currently, there is a large blank area of wall to either side of the underpass comprised of aluminium panels painted white with a second and smaller band of red panels below. The mural will stretch along the white panels, and the band of red may remain or be re-painted another colour to Avanti's colour specification. The width of each white panel is 109 cm and the height is 114 cm and there are approximately 45 panels in total. (See Appendix 1 pages 5 and 6) Individual panels have to be removed periodically for inspection of the walls underneath. They are fixed to the walls by small brackets above each panel. The panels offer a smooth surface to work on though they are bevelled at the edges.

The creation of a new mural will improve the subway's appearance and bring colour and impact to these expanses of wall. This is a significant opportunity to bring local visual arts to the attention of both passengers and staff and will be a creative gateway for people arriving and departing from Wigan.

The project aims to engage local communities and stakeholders including community groups and charities, local businesses, commuters, station staff, local authority organisations such as the library, schools and colleges in the development of an artistic brief related to the history, heritage, people and places of the Wigan borough. We are also working with Wigan Warriors who will feature in the mural alongside other Wigan heroes identified by the local community.

The mural will be produced by a suitably experienced artist, and preference will be given to artists who have or are living, working or studying in Wigan. The main artist will be supported in the development of the design by volunteers, who may be newly qualified artists or young people aspiring to a career in visual arts. The project will also provide opportunity for additional community engagement through arranged site visits to observe and document the installation.

Artists will be invited to submit a design proposal for the mural site. A short list of designs will be selected, and the winning design will be chosen by a Selection Panel comprising representatives from Avanti, SELCRP and the local community. The winning artist will also be expected to work on design development with a selection of local community groups through workshops organised by SELCRP and local community partners.

A space at the Swan and Railway Public house directly opposite the station will be available for the artist to use as a planning base.

Artistic brief

Suitably experienced visual artists who have worked, studied or resided in the Wigan area or who have significant links with Wigan are invited to submit proposals for an innovative and colourful two-dimensional mural for the subway at Wigan North Western Station, Wallgate, Wigan WN1 1BJ.

The design for the mural will be printed onto hard wearing vinyl. Designs must be submitted in the digital format specified by the local company chosen to produce and install the mural.

Artists are encouraged to create a contemporary design that features both significant members of the community, past and present, and the context and history of Wigan celebrating the landscape, buildings and dynamism of the area. The design must also be sympathetic to the structural limitations of the site and relate to its use as passenger thoroughfare.

and artists are encouraged to read this before formulating their design.

A series of interviews and surveys will be undertaken with station staff, rail users and the local community to gather their views about who and what the mural should represent. A social media campaign, Wigan Heroes, will support this engagement with the public.

A further requirement is therefore that the selected artist responds to the results of these interviews, which will be posted on the SELCRP website as part of the documentation of the project - <https://www.boltoncommunityrail.org.uk/>

Deadline for the submission of proposals is midnight on Saturday 12th June 2021.
